Approved For Release 2007/03/06: CIA-RDP84S00554R000100190001-7 Ton Secret

Directorate of Intelligence

OWE

$\overline{}$	_	·/	_
٠,	5	Х	•

25X1

Insurgencies in Thailand: A Declining Threat

An Intelligence Assessment

Top Secret

25X1

Approved	For Release 2007/03/06 : CIA-RDP84S00554R000100190001-7	25X
	Notice to recipients of Intelligence Assessment: Insurgencies in Thailand: A Declining Threat, EA 82-10111C.	705×
		₽5X ₽5X
	The graphic on page 1 is incorrect. Please replace it with the new chart below.	25)
	Thailand: Major Communist Insurgent Incidents ^a Number of incidents
	9
	8
	7
	6
	5
	4
	3
	2
	1
	0 1978 79 80 81 82
	^a Major incidents cause loss of life, serious injury, or major damage to property. b Projected.	25X
		20/
	587631 9-82

Errata

282

25X1

Top Secret
	25 X

Insurgencies in Thailai	nd:
A Declining Threat

25X1

An Intelligence Assessment

This paper was prepared by	25 X ′
Southeast Asia Division, Office of East Asian Analysis. Comments and queries are welcome and may be addressed to the Chief, Southeast Asia
Division, OEA,	25X′
This paper was coordinated with the Directorate of Operations and the National Intelligence Council.	25X2

25X² Top Secret EA 82-10111C

October 1982

25X²

Approved For	Release 2007/03/06 : CIA-RDP84S00554F	R000100190001-7
		Top Secret
		25X1
	Insurgencies in Thailand:	25V1
	A Declining Threat	25X1
Key Judgments Information available as of 1 September 1982 was used in this report.	Thai insurgents are still able to mount ra assassination attempts against local offic but they do not now pose either a serious Government or a threat to its control over	ials, and ambushes in rural areas, danger to the stability of the Thai
	If anything, we expect the Communist Poless effective over the next few years. Operaway the most important area of Communiformation—have been sharply curtailed by government's two-pronged approach to durative and economic programs that deny effective military operations—will increase that cutback.	erations in the northeast—far and unist activity since the party's by a cutback in Chinese aid. The ealing with the party—administry support to the Communists, plus
	Other insurgent groups, particularly the Thailand, will continue to mount sporadi even less of a threat to the government. I toward Bangkok's non-Muslim administrem, however, will hamper Bangkok's eff	c terrorist attacks, but these are The Muslims' intense resentment ration, education, and legal sys-
	Several factors could alter our analysis of insurgents: • A sharp deterioration in economic conditions. • The installation of a repressive regime numbers of disaffected Thai into the rate. • A large inflow of foreign aid to the insurvences by Communist splinter groups cross section of the rural community. So far we see no indications that these far next few years. While we believe some letter thailand, we expect the insurgencies the nuisance.	ditions in Thailand. in Bangkok that pushes large anks of the insurgents. urgents. in developing ties with a broad actors will come into play over the evel of insurgency is endemic to
		0574
	iii	Top Secret

25X1

October 1982

,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,,						Cop Sec	ret
					L			25X1
Insurgencies in Tha iland A Declining Threat	:							25X1
		ı						0574
By all accounts		Thails	and: N	Igior C	ommun	ist		25 X1
insurgency in Thailand has faded over the				ncident				25X1 years from its 1978-79 peak. The Commun Thailand (CPT), which accounts for perhapeent of Thailand's approximately 8,000 ins	os 85 per-	Numbe	r of inci	dents hindered by a sharp reduction in external a		9
from internal divisions that have discourag		1]
ment and encouraged desertions. The Mus		8		!
ratists on the southern peninsula have been		7			1
draw much active support for their radical	causes	6	70					25X1
		5
		4
		3		 	1	 		25X1
No. 11 along the consumment goes the incu	raanaiaa as	-
Nevertheless, the government sees the insura potential threat and expends significant a		2
money and manpower to keep them under		Ī
According to press reports, Bangkok will sp		0	1978	79	80	81	82	83 b
$450 million—about one-third of planned					of life, serio	us injury, c	or defense outlays—for anti-Communist oper		major d b Projec	amage to ted.	property.
1983. military is largely a counterinsurgency for	Thailand's	·						25X1
ment casualties resulting from counterinsu		587631 9	82
ations run some 500 annually	 	Worr	, a bout	Comm	uniet act	ivity th	roughout	South-
The Communist Party of Thailand								ty's 25X1
The Communist movement in Thailand be	gan in the							dents 1 Kra25X1
1920s, but no significant military activity
until the late 1960s, when the largely ethn	ic Chinese						arty and s party leadership began receiving financial		_		-	ment act le 1960s,		rom a few	25 X 1 ideological guidance from Beijing. The par support from hill tribes in outlying areas,		T TCTCG					d more th government corruption and neglect and rei		majo					9 peak, h message with coercion. The preponderance activity took place in the north and northe								25X1
of easy access to Chinese aid; much smalle tions in the south were financed largely by and coercion of local citizens. Before the f Saigon in 1975, Bangkok showed little cor Communist activity in Thailand and did n
even to coordinate or sustain counterinsur	gency operations. Only after 1975, when Thai officia	ls began to			•				~ = · · ·
1	1				_	Top Se	cret_	25X1
	1				Γ			7 25X1

Top Secret

25X1

Top Secret

Approved For Release 2007/03/06 : CIA-F	RDP84S00554R000100190001-7
	Top Secret
	25X1
the CPT was unable to seriously challenge the government in Bangkok or even to establish a liberated zone
in the countryside.	25X1
	25X1
Today it is even less of a problem	20/(1
major incidents in 1981 were down by almost
half since 1978 We believe	25X1
the decline has three major causes: the reduction in Chinese aid, the	25X1
inability of the old-line party leadership to attract	25X1 support from Thailand's young people, and an effective government counterinsurgency campaign.	25X1
	At the same time the party is having trouble holding X1
Declining Support. China's policy of active support	on to its members, recruitment of new members is lagging. Independent media commentary confirms for its CPT protege changed with the widening of the	that progovernment sentiment has been aroused b $25X1
Sino-Vietnamese rift in the late 1970s. We believe	the presence of Vietnamese troops on Thailand's that after the Vietnamese invasion of Kampuchea in	borders and that the external Communist threat has 1978, Beijing became more interested in cultivation of	only heightened the public's distrust of the domestic
Thai support for the Kampuchean resistance than in	Communists. Moreover, we believe the influx of refu-
backing Thai dissidents.	gees from Kampuchea has helped publicize the abde X1 mal living conditions in neighboring Communist states. Finally, descriptions of the insurgents' Spartan existence by defectors have discouraged potential
In 1980 it	recruits. 25X1
stopped plain language propaganda broadcasts from the CPT radio station based in southern China. At the	Successful Government Tactics. The government's 5X1 same time, Beijing singled out Hanoi as the primary	new political-military offensive—although it has not resulted in heavy insurgent casualties—has further 5 x 1 enemy of Communist movements in Southeast Asia.	cut into the party's operations and impaired recruitment efforts. Since February, government forces 2521
Beijing's rapprochement with Bangkok has created	been penetrating and capturing Communist base ar-deep fissures among the lower ranks of the CPT. In	eas in the southern provinces formerly considered 1981, according to press accounts, the CPT offered	impregnable, and, according to Thai officials, Bang-
the Thai Government a nationalist alliance of forces	kok plans to try to secure the region with a protective against the common Vietnamese foe, but Bangkok refused.	hamlet campaign bolstered by extensive progovernment proselytizing. In rural areas, Thai officials says x1
rerused.	that the government is expanding the highly successful psychological warfare approach begun under the Kriangsak administration in the late 1970s in the economically disadvantaged northeast. A recent Bangkok directive indicates that the government now places greater emphasis on political than on military operations 25X1 operations. 25X1
	25X1
	25/1
3	Top Secret
J	25X1

• •	6 : CIA-RDP84S00554R000100190001-7
Ton Secret		25X1
		20/(1
		25X1
The four-part program in use today begins with	Pak Mai groups have made forays into Thailand from leaflets and broadcasts—not dissimilar to the insurgents' own—to counter Communist propaganda. In	their operating bases along the border, primarily to proselytize villagers and reconnoiter.	25X1
the second phase, former CPT members lecture	proserytize vinagers and recommoner.	20/1 against Communism on the government's behalf.
These testimonials, particularly by local defectors, are especially instrumental in swaying the population,		0EV4
teer Defense Corps are then formed to work alongside		25X1
the authorities to suppress criminal activities, with emphasis on those of the CPT. Finally, loyal villages are eligible to form Volunteer Defense and Development Corps to provide extended developmental planning and judicial safeguards for the community. In the northeast, the government claims to have created 321 totally secure villages, with a total of 615,000
volunteers in 6,623 villages.		25X1
voluntoors in 0,025 villages.		20/(1
Even more important, the government is adopting a new administrative style. The traditional exploitative and imperious rule by officials insensitive to local		0EV4 needs played into the Communists' hands. Bangkok has in recent years been		25X1 25X1 sending out better and brighter civilian administrators		25 X I and military field commanders, particularly to areas
with active insurgent groups.		25X1
	To the second se
	Muslim Separatists: Non-Communist Nuisance The activities of up to 1,000 non-Communist Muslim separatists in southern Thailand complicate the secu-	25X1 rity situation. The separatists, who belong to a pletho-	20/(1
New Splinter Parties	ra of small groups—the most notable being the
the divisions	umbrella organization, the Pattani United Liberation	05144
within the CPT have led to the establishment by CPT defectors of a nominally pro-Soviet party, the Pak	Organization (PULO)—want autonomy or union with	25X1
Mai (New Party), under Vietnamese tutelage.	Malaysia for the southernmost provinces of Thailand. We believe they are not concerned with changing the	25X1
the several-hundred-member party,	government in Bangkok, although some might seek	25X1
which is headquartered in Laos, is aimed at subvert-	destabilization of the regime as a means to attain	20/(1
ing Thailand's ethnically Lao northeast. In what we	autonomy. Liaison with the Communists is, we be-	25X1 believe to be a reference to the new group, Vientiane radio on 3 June heralded the reconsolidation of the	lieve, limited at best because of the Muslims' ideologi-	25X1
"democratic movement" in Thailand following Chi-	cal opposition to Communism.	25 X I
na's "betrayal" of the CPT.		25X1
•
Though founded perhaps as early as 1978, we believe the Pak Mai is still in a formative stage. We believe	The same set of	25X1
members are handled by Lao Communists, with whom they share an ethnic bond, but are under the	the separatist movement has arisen in response to religious and ethnic discrimiultimate control of Vietnamese authorities. Armed	nation over the years by Thai authorities against the

Top Secret	4	25X1
•

Approved For Release 2007/03/06 : CIA-RDP84S00554R000100190001-7

	Ton Secret
•	25X1
	·
2 to 3 million predominantly Muslim, ethnically Malay of the south. Although the separatist groups attract popular sympathy, their limited growth suggests most Thai Muslims have remained on the 057/
sidelines.	25X 1
Although most of the government's counterinsurgency efforts are directed against the Communists, we see some signs that Bangkok intends to improve its operations against the separatists.	25X 1
	25X1
	25/
	A. Containelle Deutlem
	A Containable Problem
	The insurgents are still able to mount several hundred
Bangkok is also applying administrative reforms to	incidents per year, about the level of the mid-1970s.
southern Muslim districts. Prime Minister Prem, a	But the momentum of the insurgency has shifted.
southerner, increasingly is using local officials for	Membership has declined and recruitment prospects sensitive posts and is trying to reach some accommo-	have worsened. External aid to the Communists has been cut. And the government in Bangkok appears dation with Muslim desires for such things as Malay language instruction in the schools and a separate	committed to maintaining an active counterinsurlegal system based on Islamic law. For example, from	gency program. 25X1 70 to 80 percent of officials in the south today are natives of the region, and about 30 percent are	There still could be serious, unexpected setbacks to Muslims. According to press accounts, the govern-	the program—economic crises could shake peasan 25X1
ment also has persuaded a major southern university	confidence in the government, for example, or a coup-
to offer a four-year Islamic studies curriculum	installed military regime could rekindle the stude $\tilde{\Omega}5\times1 activist flame. Even more dangerous would be a decision by the government to return to a disinterested style of administration in the traditional are 25/1 insurgent operations. But we see no signs of such major disruptions to Thai society and believe that Bangkok will be able to contain the insurgency for the next few years. 25X1
	liext few years.
	T I I I I I I I I I I I I I I I I I I I
	Implications for the US
	Thailand's counterinsurgency program was set up with US assistance but today is largely an internal Thai affair. A major increase in Chinese or Vietnamese involvement with the Thai insurgency would probably lead Bangkok to ask for substantially increased arms deliveries or security guarantees from the United States. But short of this kind of major, and in our view unlikely, reversal, we would expect no more than occasional Thai requests for modest amounts of US aid to the counterinsurgency effort.
	25X1
5	Top Secret

Top Secret	roved For Release 2007/03/06 : CIA-RDP84S00554R00	25X1
(
,
		•

Top Secret